Determining Partners and Their Roles

Use this tool to determine whom you might invite to partnership around your community initiative. When considering partners think carefully about their gifts and capacities and in what way they can contribute. Consider what you know of the gifts of your co-learners in this course (See Personal Asset Mapping exercise from Dialog Four, Inclusive People). Remember, contributions can be made in non-traditional ways. Be Creative!

Who: Are they community members? Do they exhibit the values needed to take a leadership role?

Why: Do they have an interest (business or personal) in the initiative?

How: What roles might this partner play (i.e. fundraising, donations, time, skills, artistic, good public speaker)?
